

THEY WERE TERRIFIED,
as they entered the cloud.

The second Sunday of Lent brings us one of the most interesting experiences in the life of Jesus: the Transfiguration on Mount Tabor. There are many considerations to be made: First, this extraordinary event happens in a moment of prayer; Jesus went up to the mountain to pray. Second, the revelation on the mountain is very similar to the revelation of the baptism on the river Jordan. Third, in the vision, Jesus is positioned between Moses (the Law) and the Prophet, as to show the connection between the old and the new testament. Fourth, Jesus is talking about the “exodus” to be accomplished in Jerusalem (a clear reference to His passion, death and resurrection). Fifth, the cloud in which the three disciples entered (terrified) reveals the presence of the Trinity; from the cloud they hear the voice of the Father and then it is the cloud that takes away the whole vision from their sight.

The Gospel of Luke tells us that the three disciples did not say anything to the others about this incident. Why? I believe that they were deeply confused; they did not know what to make of this experience. It was really out of the ordinary, it was something that they could not grasp. They were allowed to see that their master was really the “Son of Man” as prophesied by the prophet Daniel; their master was even above Moses and the Prophets. They could not understand what was going on, since He had just told them that He was going down to Jerusalem to die. A great vision, but difficult to understand.

Many times, we cannot figure out what God is doing with our life. Many times, we have to enter into the cloud of the mystery of God’s love, and many times we are surprised, almost terrified. At the end of the vision, the disciples remain “alone with Jesus”. That is our calling: to remain alone with Jesus, even when He is going down to Jerusalem to be betrayed and crucified.

Are we ready to enter the cloud of our faith and remain “alone with Jesus”?
